Carney investigation

Barnes indicted for homicide

Scott E. Barnes, 29, Oak Lawn, was indicted by the Lake County Grand Jury, on Thursday, Dec. 16.

According to Assistant State's Atty. Peter Trobe, who is in charge of State's Atty. Fred Foreman's reckless homicide task force, Barnes has been charged with reckless homicide and driving while under the influence of alcohol in connection with the traffic death of Mary Carney, 41, Antioch.

Barnes' car allegedly crossed the center line and struck Carney's car head-on on Nov. 18.

The case will be heard by Lake County Circuit Court Judge William Block. The preliminary hearing date was not set at press time.

Barnes told Lake County deputies at the scene of the accident that he remembered going for a drink with friends shortly after midnight and could recall nothing after that until he saw Carney's car in front of him at 6:28 a.m.

Trobe declined to say whether or not Barnes passed the blood alcohol test taken after the accident or to comment on rumors that Barnes suffers from seizures of some type.

"All that will come out in the trial," he said.

3 Antioch Twp. firms burglarized in a row

Three Antioch Township businesses were broken into and robbed sometime between Wednesday, Dec. 15, and Thursday, Dec. 16.

According to Lake County Sheriff Dept.'s Det. Jerry Pankauskas, at 2:43 a.m., on Dec. 16, Deputy William Bobrowski discovered that a pop machine had been turned over in front of the J&L Gas Station on Rte. 83, south of Antioch.

Upon further inspection, Bobrowski found that a front window of the station had been broken and entry gained by pushing in the security screen.

A trail of footprints in the new-fallen snow led to the building next door, Lasco Insurance, where the rear door had been kicked in.

Gloves were found to be missing from the service station and a 9-mm pistol was taken from the insurance agency.

A short time later patrolling Lake County deputies found that the Wunder Bar, less than a block away from the other burglary sites, had a south-side door kicked in.

Another trail of footprints in the snow showed that the burglar had probably left the building by unlocking a northeast side door from the inside.

Over $400 was found to be missing from the bar's cash drawer.

The case is still under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Teen burglars undergoing drug, alcohol treatment

According to a representative of the office of the chief of the Lake County State's Attorney's juvenile division, Barbara Johnson, the 16-year-old Antioch teen who received probation after being charged with nine counts of burglary and home invasion, has several conditions added to that probation.

While he is a ward of the court until Dec. 1983, he has a daily 10 p.m. curfew, he must undergo stringent drug counseling and take part in stress programs.

The other Antioch teen who was charged with 22 counts of burglary and home invasion in connection with a two-day robbery spree that covered portions of Illinois and Wisconsin, is under treatment at the Park Alcoholic Treatment Center, Lake Villa.

He is set for a placement hearing on Jan. 18.

Lorenz gets board okay for tavern

Ray Lorenz, former owner of Smiley's Corner, the tavern that was one of the businesses that was demolished to make way for the new Jewel-Osco complex at the intersection of Rtes. 173 and 59, got the go ahead for his new venture in the building that now houses Wanda's Restaurant.

At the continuation of the regular board meeting, the Antioch Village Board approved a special use, for zoning purposes, to allow liquor to be served in the building adjacent to the municipal parking lot, south of the Old Fire House.

The board also granted Lorenz a building permit for remodeling the building.

In further business, Antioch Mayor Ray Toft led the board in passing a resolution stating that the board opposes any public utility rate raise by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Senior attackers to serve 16 years

by GLORIAS DAVIS

The two men who were found guilty of the robbery, home invasion and the aggravated assault of Ethel Jimmerson, 90, Antioch Township, were sentenced to serve a total of 16 years in the Illinois Dept. of Corrections by Lake County Judge William Block.

Michael Pinkham, 19, Antioch, and John Schneider, 18, Lindenhurst, have both appealed their sentences but are already serving those sentences while the appeals are in process since Block revoked their bonds.

Pinkham was sentenced to 10 years and Schneider, six years. Assistant State's Atty. Mathew Chancey prosecuted the case.

The two men were convicted and sentenced for breaking into the home where the 90-year-old woman lived alone, serving as its caretaker, at 3:45 a.m., on May 9.

The two stole several items from the home after admittedly striking the senior citizen in the head with a stick.

Jimmerson was hospitalized for 20 days after the incident but both men were caught almost immediately after the robbery.

Anyone that disagrees with the stand for a 19-year-old drinking age raise in Wisconsin, recently made by Gov. Elect. Anthony Earl, should get busy and write to Earl in Madison and-or the Wisconsin Legislature.

Many think this would do little to solve the problem of the drinking-driving Illinois teens that are killing themselves and innocent victims during their treks to and from Wisconsin bars since the highest accident rate is 19.

Recent polls show that the majority of the border residents of both states and legislators from Illinois and Wisconsin are pulling for Wisconsin to raise the drinking age to match Illinois' 21-year-old mandate.

AARP holds party celebrating holiday

It was a festive occasion on Dec. 14 at the Windjammer Restaurant when 215 members and guests gathered to observe the Annual Christmas Luncheon of Antioch Chapter 387, American Assn. of Retired Persons.

The centerpiece on the speakers table was a gift from Antioch Mayor Raymond Toft. Other table decorations and the wreaths which everyone wore were created by Arline Brumbaugh.

Honored guests, Mayor and Mrs. Toft and Township Supervisor Jim Fields, were introduced by President

Ruth Rynders. Jim Fields thanked the members for their contribution of canned goods for the needy at Thanksgiving time.

The invocation was given by Cecile Mann, past president.

Members heard that Esther Aiano was appointed assistant state director for Northern Illinois for the fourth consecutive year.

Each officer and chairman of committees received a gift from the chapter in appreciation for past efforts. Through donations from Antioch merchants many door prizes were awarded to members who were present and whose names were drawn by William and Francis Tomasik.

Al Courtois, entertainment

chairman, introduced Arvid Anderson, accordionist, who provided music for a sing-along and dancing after lunch.

A tribute was paid Alita Hill in observance of her 90th birthday on Christmas Day.

A vote of thanks was extended to Al Courtois and Arline Brumbaugh for their help in making this party a success, and to the merchants of Antioch for their contributions.

Because of the holidays, there will be no further meetings until Jan. 11. There will be a board meeting at 9:45 a.m. prior to the meeting.

ACHS Board approves 1983-84 school calendar

Antioch Community High School Supt. Warren Polley's office reported that the emergency disaster drill scheduled for Dec. 14 was cancelled along with others that were scheduled throughout the state.

The cancellation came from Gov. Jim Thompson's office in order that all emergency facilities be available for the relief of flood victims.

The drill has been rescheduled for the week of Jan. 17, 1983.

The Antioch Community High School has approved the 1983-84 calendar, and set this year's graduation date for Sunday, June 5, 1983.

Opening day of the 1983-84 year will be

Friday, August 26 and the year will end Friday, June 8, 1984.

Board President Robert Lindblad reported on the exit interview he attended on Dec. 10. The exit interview of the North Central Assn. is an oral report by the general chairman. The written report should be available by early February. The report will contain the commendations and recommendations from the 26 educators who spent nearly two days evaluating all aspects of the school on Dec. 8 and 9.

In other business the board approved the purchase of a Franklin microcomputer for use in the vocational education area and for computer assisted drafting.

Jury finds Feltner innocent of charges

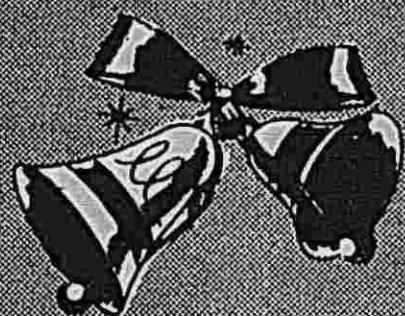

According to Assistant State's Atty. Jack Bartels, a 12-man Lake County Jury found Larry Feltner, 30, Waukegan, not guilty on all charges, after a two-day trial in Lake County Circuit Court that ended on Friday, Dec. 10.

Feltner was charged by the Antioch Police Dept. with running four traffic signs, going 60 miles per hour in a 30 mile zone, improper lane usage, reckless driving, driving on a suspended driver's license and fleeing and eluding the police.

These charges stemmed from a high speed chase that took place in June, in Antioch. The chase ended with the Feltner car hitting a utility pole and a tree and flipping upside down.

At a previous hearing Feltner claimed that Laura Littner, 17, Round Lake, thought to be a passenger in the car, was the driver of the car not himself.

The assistant State's Attorney that prosecuted the case could not be contacted for comment at press time.

EDUCATION TO DEVELOP

RE: "Did Your Kid's Diploma Cost Almost $81,000?"

The suggestion that a public education concluding at graduation from high school costs $81,000 per student is not only erroneous, but emotionally inflammatory, and, therefore, counterproductive.

The author implies that education can be likened to a savings account into which you regularly deposit, but from which you derive no benefit for 13 years.

This is clearly not the case with education. Every bit of knowledge absorbed by a student is put to immediate use by that student in his or her development towards becoming an educated person.

Furthermore, the fact that some federal wild hares passed laws demanding elevators and the like in schools is no reason to condone or support the denial of needed funds to schools.

Real investigation would show schools to be run reasonably well financially.

Certainly, salaries are not ridiculous.

A teacher with fifteen years seniority in our local schools will earn as much as a first year postman.

Lastly, with regard to school costs, lest the "Your" in the title misleads anyone, let us remember that the cost of education is not born single-handedly by parents. All of us who pay taxes, including childless people such as myself, pay on an equal basis for the education of the young.

It is misguided to believe that public education's primary goal is "to prepare our children to go out into the cruel world and earn a living". This has never been the goal of public education.

Apprenticeship or specialized vocational or professional courses of study have been and remain the path by which skills for the market place are acquired.

Public education is designed to develop civilized human beings. This is achieved through the teaching of basic academic skills in communication and mathematics. It is achieved also by fostering understanding of the peoples of this country and the peoples of the world through the enlightenment of history.

Sports, music and art are not frills in public education. These are among the most civilized activities of people and they should be nurtured in the young.

Reappoint Aiani to AARP post

Esther Aiani has been reappointed to the executive committee of the American Assn. of Retired Persons (AARP) as assistant state director for Illinois for the term of Jan. 1, 1983, to Dec. 31, 1983.

According to Cyril F. Brickfield, executive director of AARP, her reappointment reflects the committee's high degree of confidence in her demonstrated leadership skills and record of service.

When I think about it Scrooge was benevolent compared to columnist

by GLORIA DAVIS

This is the time of the year that everybody's in to family togetherness, brotherly love and good cheer.

Of course all of this is well and good and it has often been noted that these admirable feelings should be around all year long and not just during the holidays.

Despite the fact that I love Christmas and all the "Yulish" things that surround the Dec. 25 holiday, the capitalization of the things that I hold dear about this holiday by the media, retail community and many other people with their hands out is really beginning to get to me.

For instance, I can't get enough Christmas cards adorned with manger scenes, and I simply adore all the legends, like those of the Christmas Rose and the Little Drummer Boy, that are in the same vein, but I can do without renditions of the birth of Christ as told by the Saturday Night Live cast two years ago.

This one crossed the bounds of acceptable satire, especially with its allusions to Mary and Joseph's sex life.

There are some things that still should be considered sacred.

And I love to hear and see Christmas carolers outside of my livingroom window but I've had more than my fill of Christmas specials on tv that were filmed in California last summer.

Andy William's yearly family Yule spectacular is probably one of the biggest farces perpetrated on the tv viewing public in light of his personal history. The man hasn't had a working family for years.

Even thought I am one of those nutty people who really get a bang out of Christmas shopping, and I certainly am not averse to cutting the ever escalating cost of crossing out those purchases, I am insulted by the prevalent scams that some retailers are pulling on the buying public.

Just who do the merchants think they're kidding with all the "Gigantic Sale" signs that add to the red trim in many store windows?

I've found that either some of the reductions are so slight that they barely equal the tax on an item or that the prices have been hiked and then "reduced" to the original figures that adorned the price tag before the Christmas rush began.

Here's another "buyer beware" tip, know your prices before you do your shopping at some of these "discount" merchandising palaces.

Though they undoubtedly have some good buys, many of their prices are either the same or more than those to be found in small local stores.

And I think that there should be a law that all Santa's have to be believably fat and have jolly faces adorned with passable white beards.

Some of the skinny Santas that sport cotton stuck to their receding chins with scotch tape, with breath that reeks of an overindulgence in Christmas cheer, are as sinful as a satire on the first Christmas as far as I'm concerned.

Our children already have enough day to day disillusionment to deal without being forced to identify with a black Santa.

Equality is great but that is going too far! There are certain people that must be stereotyped.

I've never heard of any militant group spearheading a drive for a white Aunt Jemima or an Indian Charlie Chan.

As far as the sending of Christmas cards is concerned, not that I would dare think of taking revenue away from the U.S. Post office, I've decided that cards are meant for communicating with distant relatives and friends to let them know you're thinking about them during this special time of the year.

A personal Merry Merry to those whom one is in constant contact with seems much more sincere to me. I really don't care to do something special for my milkman, garbage man or the man who reads my gas and electric meters simply because they're doing a job they are often well-paid to do.

Not to mention the boy who delivers my newspaper to either the furthest bush in my yard or to my neighbor's yard down the block. The same one that makes sure my paper is delivered and left in the open for at least two or three hours before anyone is home on rainy or snowy days.

Besides, I probably wouldn't know them if I fell over them on the street, so how sincere is that printed wish coming from me. I hope they will receive all the really personal good wishes from their own friends and relatives.

So now that I've come across like the biggest Scrooge ever, let me wish all the people who are reading this column that I know, like or love, a Merry Christmas.

To the rest of you, probably the majority, may those you care about, care about you, not only for the next few weeks but always.

DENTURE CARE

Question: What is the best way to care for my new dentures?

Answer: There are certain actions that will help dentures last longer and give you the comfort and function you expect. For one thing, brush them daily to keep them clean. The few quick minutes you spend on this is vital! Clean inside, outside, and between teeth. You can use a specially designed denture brush sold in any drug store. Never use hot water or gritty powders on them.

If your mouth tends to form tartar deposits, check regularly with your dentist and have them removed. Between visits, soak dentures overnight in full-strength white vinegar at least once a week to soften the tartar and make it easier to remove with a toothpick or brush.

One more hint: when you clean dentures, hold them over a basin of warm water so if they should slip out of your fingers, they won't break.

Brides, families invited to Lakeland Bridal Show

Gingiss Formal Wear, 2201 Grand Ave., Waukegan, has joined the list of sponsors who will provide a look at the latest in bridal fashions and accessories at what should prove to be an enjoyable afternoon for future brides, mothers and bridal parties.

Lakeland Newspapers' Bridal Show '83, slated for Sunday, Jan. 16, 1983, will familiarize brides preparing to walk down the aisle for the first time with the many different aspects of planning a wedding. It will also be a handy information session for mothers of the bride, whether it's the first daughter to take the step or the 10th.

Top Lake County merchants dealing in weddings will be on hand to explain how they will help plan every aspect of the wedding to insure that the wedding day will be one not forgotten.

In addition to many helpful planning tips, participating merchants will be giving away many wedding-oriented prizes to those who attend Bridal Show '83.

Highlight of the bridal show will be a presentation of bridal fashions by JC Penney/Lakehurst and Gingiss Formal Wear. Fashions of all designs will be spotlighted in this show with fashion commentary by Lakeland Newspapers Fashion Editor Gloria Davis.

The Lakeland Newspapers Bridal Show '83 will be held at the Gurnee Holiday Inn, 6161 Grand Ave. Doors will open at 1 p.m. and ample time will be provided for guests to confer with exhibitors at the show.

Invitations will be sent to recently engaged brides-to-be whose engagement announcement appeared in recent issues of your Lakeland Newspaper. Invitations are also available through JC Penney's Lakehurst store. Reservations can also be made by contacting Gloria Faller at the Grayslake office of Lakeland Newspapers, (312) 223-8161. Reservations are requested.

Limited exhibition space is still available. Exhibitors interested in participating in the Lakeland Newspapers Bridal Show '83 who have not yet completed their arrangements should contact their Lakeland Newspapers sales representative or Advertising Manager Gail Robinson, (312) 223-8161.

Soph wrestlers win Hershey Tournament

The sophomore wrestlers of Antioch High School put together an exciting team effort as they captured the number one position over seven other schools at the Hershey Sophomore Wrestling Tournament.

The soph's amassed 148½ points to lead the eight team field. The entire tournament of 130 matches came down to the second to last match.

Tim Princing of Antioch had to win in order to provide enough team points to keep a comfortable lead over next in contention, and eventual second place finishers, Mt. Prospect High School.

Princing won a close match and clinched the title.

His only match however was only one which climaxed a day of exceptional wrestling by the soph grapplers.

Others successful that day were: John Geir, who won three straight matches for a championship at the 126 lb.

weight class; Todd Veltman (105 lb.) and Jamie Olson (HWT.) both were in the finals and took second place.

A host of soph's took third place and thanks to their efforts in the wrestlebacks, many team points were obtained to help in the overall team championship.

Among these place winners were Randy Jackson (132 lb.), Dave Lear (138 lb.), Matt Pilkington (145 lb.), Mike Dydo (155 lb.) and Andy Vinnès (167 lb.).

Add to these places the successful efforts of Mike Schlichting (112 lb.) and Darren Unrein (119 lb.), both fifth place finishers.

Antioch had 11 place winners in 12 weight classes. Coach Dan Mikal says the team has a lot of spirit and heart. Their looking forward to the upcoming Carmel Tournament, Dec. 23, when they can put their efforts together again to take home another championship.
